On October 14, 2021, the Company was featured in Boulder Weekly<sup>[3]</sup> an alternative newsweekly that publishes every Thursday in Boulder, Colorado. In the interview the Company provided insight into the importance of isotopic molecular size's importance in the Company's CBD products. Skin, as an organ, only allows very small molecules to pass through it and into the body because it functions as protection for invasive bodies. Thus, no matter how much CBD a salve contains, if the molecular size of that isolate is too big, the CBD won't make it through the epidermis and the dermis and into the subcutaneous tissue.
