Supreme Metals Corp. Update on Activity in the Bloom Lake East Area

Sudbury, Ontario – July 20, 2017 - Supreme Metals Corp. (the “Company”) (CSE: ABJ)(FSE:A68) is pleased to congratulate its neighbor, Champion Iron Ore Limited for its recent USD180M debt financing on its Bloom Lake Iron Ore Mine production restart.

The restarting of this mine and the recent rise in iron prices should enhance the economics of the iron ore occurrences existing on Supreme Metal Corp’s Bloom Lake East Properties located adjacent to Champion Iron Ore Limited’s Bloom Lake Iron Ore operations.

The Bloom Lake East claims lie between the Champion Iron Ore Limited and the Iron Ore Company of Canada (IOC) operations along the strike extension of the Sokoman Formation, previously known as the Wabush Iron Formation, which is the formation from which the iron is mined by the two major mining companies. The Bloom Lake East claims were originally acquired for a cobalt occurrence within a sulphide body on the property however 5 known iron occurrences also exist on the property as reported on the Geoscience Atlas of the Newfoundland government. Numerous strong magnetic anomalies also exist on the property along trend of the middle member of the Sokoman Formation.

The Bloom Lake Railway runs through several of the East Bloom Lake Claims. This common carrier railway runs to a multi-user deepwater port on the St. Lawrence River offering year-round access to global markets.

Bob Komarechka noted “The Company feels this recent announcement confirming the funding for restarting Champion Iron Ore Limited’s Bloom Lake Mine is a very positive event that can help enhance the value of the existing iron occurrences on Supreme Metals Corp’s adjacent Bloom Lake East Property. In addition to this, the reopening of the mine will allow for enhanced infrastructural facilities that will facilitate future exploration and potential development.”
