As per the Company's press release from August 19th the Company updated the marketplace on its latest solution testing results

Pre stripping results show high levels of Li, 77.8% being put into solution while maintaining industry-low impurity levels.

Based on current industry off the shelf technology, we should be able to process a concentration of 40% solids with off the shelf technology bringing our Li concentration in our synthetic brine solution to 360 ppm Li. This assumes we will be using material from the upper oxide horizon as feedstock and all the while maintaining industry-low impurity levels. As mentioned further tests are planned
