Spaced Food expects to begin commercial production this month. Initial production capacity will be 100,000 packages per month, with potential to expand to up to 500,000 packages per month as demand increases.

Blackhawk hopes to expand this approved offering to other provinces as well as other regulated jurisdictions outside of Canada. Any expansion outside of Ontario remains subject to receipt of applicable regulatory approvals.

“We cannot be more excited to finally have Spaced Food and our Cannabis 2.0 products produced and available for eager consumers. We will continue to expand the product line as demand grows, and with it another significant revenue driver from one of our portfolio companies” said Frederick Pels, CEO of Blackhawk. “Being vegan, gluten-free and dairy-free will help Blackhawk reach that segment of the cannabis edibles market that has been very much ignored until this time as well. I look forward to updating the market on Spaced Food and all our cannabis focused initiatives.”
