There is a growing awareness and acceptance amongst the public, healthcare providers, insurers/payors, and regulators towards the use of digital and virtual healthcare in general, with mental healthcare making up an increasing component of that. This trend is expected to continue at double digit growth rates globally for the next several years. Its acceptance has been expedited by the CV-19 pandemic as patients were discouraged from face-to-face medical intervention in all but the most dire of circumstances. The general public has grown to understand the ease and convenience of digital healthcare as a result and healthcare payors understand that the deployment of digital health solutions both improves outcomes and reduces costs. Governments across Europe are implementing laws requiring payors to cover the cost of digital mental health therapy to the same extent as conventional methods.
