Report on Business

1. Provide a general overview and discussion of the development of the Issuer's business and operations over the previous month. Where the Issuer was inactive disclose this fact.

Until March 31, 2019 the Company managed merchant based loyalty programs for Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ("CIBC"). The Company managed merchant based loyalty programs for Toronto Dominion Bank ("TD") and this arrangement ended June 15, 2019. The core business, CIBC/TD program, of the Company rested on partnerships with CIBC and TD. In response to the loss of CIBC and TD partnerships the Company shifted its business focus to providing working capital and marketing services to retail merchants.

The Company also has a partnership with Aeroplan. Here the Company is a reseller of aeroplan miles to retailers.

Having substantially completed by August 2019 the transition of its merchant portfolio, participating in its CIBC/TD program, to its new business model, during December 2019 the Company operated its new business model and sold aeroplan miles.

The Company earned revenue from merchants participating in its CIBC/TD program, in the form of an agreed marketing fee, for every purchase completed using a CIBC and TD aero credit card at their establishments. The revenue from the new business model, the working capital product, is the discount at which the Company has purchased merchants' future sales/receivables and it is earned as the Company collects the future sales/receivables over the contracted term. The collection is a fixed contracted amount either once or twice a week over contracted term. The Company earns its revenue in the Aeroplan program from selling consumer rewards, at an agreed price per consumer reward, to participating merchants.

The Company's merchant partner base operates in diverse business segments but currently primarily restaurants many of which are leaders in their communities.

Historically, though merchant count was a key driver of revenues from the programs, revenues from the CIBC/TD program were also dependent on the penetration of CIBC credit cards and TD aero credit cards; economic environment; mix of merchants in terms of their volume of CIBC and TD aero credit card transactions; and merchant participation levels in the Advance Purchase Marketing product – product combining CIBC/TD focused loyalty marketing and working capital - (“APM”) and Marketing Only products because the fees that a merchant would pay for participation in APM was higher compared to Marketing Only. The Company's CIBC/TD program revenues were also reflective of seasonal consumer behaviour. Revenues from the Aeroplan program reflect the number of participating merchants, traffic of aeroplan members completing purchases at participating merchants and level of engagement of participating merchants in the program. The revenue from the working capital product is dependent on number of merchants, the amount of working capital deployed with merchants and the discount at which merchants' future sales/receivables are purchased by the Company. A fuller detail on the Company's programs and revenues is available in its annual and interim filings available under the Company's profile on www.sedar.com.
