Scio Oregon Hemp Project

Management is in discussions with several cannabinoid extraction companies in Oregon regarding the acquisition of the hemp biomass produced on the Scio farm from the 2018 harvest. The team at the Scio farm has prepared a number of samples for testing. The material is being processed into either crude oil or CBD distillate.

2019 Cultivation Preparation

For this year's cultivation, four different strains have been chosen from the latest high CBD industrial hemp varieties which are being used as a base for the in-house propagation program. The goal of the program is to produce approximately 50,000 clones to populate the lower 35 acres of the Scio farm for the 2019 season and reduce and/or eliminate the need for the acquisition of any additional seeds or clones from outside sources. The Scio team has now begun field preparation to ready the acreage for planting.

Expansion in 2019

The Company continues to evaluate a number of opportunities to expand the scope of its project in Oregon.

New Brunswick Hemp Project

Management continues to evaluate how best to expand the operation in New Brunswick. The key to the success of this project is the acquisition of cultivars with increased levels of cannabinoids, mainly CBD. Discussions are underway with processors in the region for the 2019 season.
