NEWS RELEASE

Cannvas Forms Education Advisory Panel and Adds A Master of Education Education Fundamental to the Cannvas.me Platform

Toronto, Ontario / August 15, 2018 – Cannvas MedTech Inc. (“Cannvas” or the “Company”) (CSE: MTEC, Frankfurt: 3CM), a leading business technology company in the cannabis space, is pleased to announce the appointment of Elizabeth Moniz and Tom Loutskou to the newly formed Cannvas Education Advisory Panel. The Cannvas Education Advisory Panel will advise and set protocols for the broad educational spectrum that Cannvas.me offers to the medical cannabis industry.

“I am very pleased to welcome Elizabeth and Tom to the newly the formed Cannvas Education Advisory Panel,” said Steve Loutskou, Chief Operating Officer, Global Markets, Cannvas MedTech Inc. “The Education Advisory Panel will be made up of leading experts in the educational development field and instrumental in the way Cannvas.me delivers education to the medical cannabis world. Elizabeth (whose focus was Neuropsychology) and Tom (who has a Masters in Education) bring extensive education and training experience to our online medical cannabis platform. I look forward to working with the Panel as we roll out a robust medical cannabis educational program with the Cannvas.me platform.”

Cannvas.me is a scalable and comprehensive solution for the global medical cannabis community offering interactive tools and physician-backed content to audiences wishing to learn about healthcare through cannabis. Its Cannvas Academy, already guided by its Medical Advisory Board, will receive additional oversight and direction from the Education Advisory Panel, made up of highly qualified members from industry and government institutions.

A 20-year veteran in the education field as a teacher, mentor, and workshop leader, Elizabeth Moniz has extensive experience in health education. Through intensive research and relatable lesson plans, Elizabeth has helped hundreds of students thoroughly understand the implications of using a variety of substances. Elizabeth believes science-based information empowers people with the education needed to make healthy living choices. Elizabeth has an Honours Bachelor of Science Degree and a Post-Graduate Degree in Child Studies from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education at the University of Toronto,

Tom Loutskou brings 17 years of teaching experience with a focus on physical and health education. A vocal supporter of medicinal cannabis use for pain management and treatment of other ailments, Tom graduated from York University with an Honours Bachelor of Science with

Majors in Kinesiology and Biology and a Bachelor of Education, and holds a Masters of Education from Nipissing University.
