Toronto, Ontario / January 3, 2019 – Cannvas MedTech Inc. (“Cannvas” or the “Company”) (CSE: MTEC) (Frankfurt: 3CM) (OTCPK: CANVF), a leading digital cannabis educator and business technology company, is pleased to report the steady growth of its products and services line entering 2019 as it persists in assembling a wide-ranging partner network to promote cannabis education, drive audiences to its Cannvas.Me platform and create revenue-generating opportunities.

“We are continuing to amass a strong network of strategic partners across the cannabis and health sciences space to bolster Cannvas.Me content and user databases, contribute to Cannvas Data analytics and reinforce the brand’s mission within the sector,” said Shawn Moniz, Chief Executive Officer, Cannvas MedTech Inc. “We expect to leverage the relationships we’ve nurtured throughout the industry to drive revenue to all aspects of the business, from education and data analysis to creative work and content creation, and feel the Company will continue to make strides through 2019.”

Working toward its goal of becoming the household name for cannabis education, Cannvas has accomplished a great deal going into the new year, solidifying its reputation through the successful launch of the product and services side of the business, generating shareholder value and propelling company growth.

Cannvas executives are actively engaged in talks with leading cannabis companies across a range of sectors for inclusion in the Company’s 2019 media plan. Its partner network will have the opportunity to access ad space allocated across several platforms and user touchpoints to reach thousands of potential customers through geo-targeted promotions while also benefiting from Cannvas Data analytics surveying the industry landscape and returning relevant results and learnings. Cannvas also plans to work with industry leaders to publish and share insights gleaned from its Cannvas.Me platform about how Canadians are learning about cannabis and what areas of interest they have, to help shape public policy and drive corporate decision-making.

Partnership agreements with clinics, pharmacies, insurance agencies and other such organizations promises to generate steady additional income with the potential for ancillary services such as creative work and content creation to strengthen those streams. Physical locations of Cannabis Marché and Cannabis Kiosks offer more potential for revenue generation and new partnerships.

Cannvas partnered with a number of high-profile cannabis-related companies in 2018, operating in wide range of areas within the cannabis industry, including: Namaste Technologies Inc., AgraFlora Organics International Inc. (formerly PUF Ventures Inc.), The Wellness Soldier, MOOD, Business of Cannabis, and the Global Cannabis Partnership.

Cannvas has also benefited enormously from the support of Tech West Canada and expects to continue leveraging the access to markets and international technology events Tech West provides. Tech West Canada has built a proven record of enabling tech companies from Western Canada to effectively deploy international events as prime sales and business development vehicles.

“We have enjoyed early dividends due to our partnerships with leading companies like Namaste Technologies and organizations like Tech West,” said Steve Loutskou, Chief Operating Officer, Global Markets, Cannabis MedTech Inc. “As the leading cannabis technology company in Canada, Namaste brought instant credibility to Cannabis.Me, further to driving future revenue. Tech West has been instrumental by supporting our efforts on the international stage at a number of prestigious conferences - The relationships developed at those conferences lead to important partnerships and we will continue to pursue partnerships with leading cannabis companies in Canada and around the world as we grow our offering to include other languages in support of our recently-announced international expansion program.”

Cannvas announced letters of intent in 2018 with Loop Media Group – GetintheLoop.com, CanvasRX, Natures Hemp, Marijuana Patient Relief, Advica Health and Blox Labs Inc. As part of its growing corporate social responsibility program, Cannabis has also entered into agreements with charitable organizations Pancreatic Cancer Canada and Sistema Toronto, with an eye on expanding that program in 2019.

Cannvas forms strategic partnerships with leading companies to disseminate its cannabis education in a number of ways, benefiting both parties. Cannabis offers a revenue-sharing model to drive users to Namaste’s services should they so choose; AgraFlora Organics and MOOD™ will be part of the Cannabis Marché program promoting their own brands and products in locations across Canada; and The Wellness Soldier contributes to Cannabis Culinary content with expert advice and reliable recipes using cannabis to prepare healthy meals.

Cannvas will also be adding two additional independent oversight boards in 2019 to further strengthen its content and connect its brand to outside industries. Users can look forward to the creation of a Science and Wellness Advisory Board and a Culinary Advisory Board with leading experts from Canada and the United States on each board.
