Report on Business

1. Provide a general overview and discussion of the development of the Issuer's business and operations over the previous month. Where the Issuer was inactive disclose this fact.

The Issuer's has advanced its tailings remediation and precious metals recovery operations in Central America during the period.

The Issuer's business is environmental reclamation and precious metal recovery. The Issuer is pursuing business opportunities in Central and South America. As part of its business, the Issuer is applying innovative technologies to reprocess artisanal tailings to achieve soil remediation and metals extraction.

The Issuer is engaged in artisanal tailings remediation focused on Central America with expansion targets across Central and South America. The opportunities pursued by the Company arise from artisanal mine tailings and recycling in these regions.

Whilst most tailings operations enjoy low operational costs, Newlox's approach benefits from higher grades characteristic of artisanal tailings due to the inefficiency of artisanal mineral processing techniques. In addition to precious metals recovery, the company's processing technology is designed to remediate artisanal tailings and remove historical pollution.

On 27 May of 2019, the Company announced the completion of pre-production activities at the Company's first precious metals recovery and environmental remediation processing plant in Central America. Since then, Newlox has been establishing steady-state operations at the processing plant.

During the fall of 2018 and through the New Year, Newlox successfully completed an extensive testing and optimization program at its tailor-made, environmentally positive, processing plant (announced 25 February 2019). The optimization program generated valuable data, which Newlox's engineering team have put to use in the final pre-production stage, completing plant upgrades while simultaneously increasing the plant's throughput capacity.

Improvements have been made to the material handling, reagent dosage, and metals recovery systems at the processing plant. These changes to the processing systems will result in enhanced recovery of precious metals while other changes have removed bottlenecks from the processing circuit to allow for larger-scale and more efficient operations.

Tank capacity, and associated infrastructure, at the processing plant has been increased by 300 per cent to allow for smooth operations at the current processing capacity and provide excess volume to allow for the Company's planned operational growth in the near-term.

In addition to the equipment modifications, Newlox's operations team has stockpiled the necessary reagents, spare parts, and other consumables to allow for the start of steady-state operations at the processing plant.

Meanwhile, the Company's in-house atomic absorption and fire assay analytical laboratory has been running continuously over the past month testing artisanal tailings stockpiles. The results of this testing have allowed Newlox's operations team to identify additional tailings stockpiles suitable for re-processing and prioritize feedstock based on precious metals content. A stockpile of high-grade feedstock has been transported to the processing plant to support upcoming steady-state operations.

2. Provide a general overview and discussion of the activities of management.

Management has been active during the period overseeing optimisation and commercialization work being conducted at the Company's first artisanal tailings reclamation and reprocessing facility as well as evaluating expansion opportunities in Central and South America.

Key management personnel were deployed to the field during the period to oversee optimization activities underway at the Issuer's operations. Among the goals of management during the period was to integrate the recommendations provided by the Company's technical advisors to field operations with the help of an expanded in-field engineering team.
