Report on Business

1. Provide a general overview and discussion of the development of the Issuer’s business and operations over the previous month. Where the Issuer was inactive disclose this fact.

The Issuer’s has advanced its tailings remediation and precious metals recovery operations in Central America during the period.

The Issuer’s business is environmental reclamation and precious metal recovery. The Issuer is pursuing business opportunities in Central and South America. As part of its business, the Issuer is applying innovative technologies to reprocess artisanal tailings to achieve soil remediation and metals extraction.

The Issuer is engaged in artisanal tailings remediation focused on Central America with expansion targets across Central and South America. The opportunities pursued by the Company arise from artisanal mine tailings and recycling in these regions.

Whilst most tailings operations enjoy low operational costs, Newlox’s approach benefits from higher grades characteristic of artisanal tailings due to the inefficiency of artisanal mineral processing techniques. In addition to precious metals recovery, the company’s processing technology is designed to remediate artisanal tailings and remove historical pollution.

Newlox has built its first tailings processing plant in Costa Rica after two rounds of research and development with the Company’s technical advisors at the Norman B. Keevil Institute of Mining Engineering at the University of British Columbia.

The Company is now conducting the final optimization and commercialization steps at the facility.

As part of the final optimization and commercialization steps being undertaken during the period, Newlox announced the continued pouring of gold doré at its recently completed, remediation and precious metals recovery facility in Central America.

Establishment of continuous operations and doré recovery represents a major accomplishment for the Company. Continuous operation of all the processing plant circuits is generating significant daily data from testing at the on-site atomic absorption spectroscopy laboratory. This will expedite procedural adjustments by the Company’s engineering team, with the goal of reaching optimal efficiency

The remediation facility, which was designed in-house and fabricated on-site is now able to recover precious metals from waste materials generated by both historical and contemporary artisanal miners. This is an exciting milestone in the Company’s design and deployment of its environmentally and socially responsible business model.

The Issuer is also excited to report that it has identified a commercial solution to the disposal of its final cleaned tailings and will provide more details in the near future.

2. Provide a general overview and discussion of the activities of management.

Management has been active during the period overseeing optimisation and commercialization work being conducted at the Company's first artisanal tailings reclamation and reprocessing facility as well as evaluating expansion opportunities in Central and South America.

Key management personnel were deployed to the field during the period to oversee optimization activities underway at the Issuer's operations. Among the goals of management during the period was to integrate the recommendations provided by the Company's technical advisors to field operations with the help of an expanded in-field engineering team.
