About Airbeam

Airbeam is a leading developer of software and hardware solutions for 5G Small Cells and wireless networks. Airbeam develops ultra-high bandwidth and low latency wireless connectivity solutions based on its proprietary 60GHz chipset. 5G networks will require an order of magnitude more towers than 4G. Most of those new towers come in form of Small Cells, especially in dense urban areas. Airbeam’s 60GHz chipset and advanced beamforming antenna technology is the only commercial solution on the market for high bandwidth wireless backhaul connections between Small Cells, eliminating the need for expensive fiber optics and time consuming deployment. Airbeam is planning to use its market leading wireless chipset as an anchor point to establish itself as a leading software and hardware technology driver for 5G Small Cells. Airbeam is forming key partnerships and actively deploying its technology around the world. .
