

QUADRON CANNATECH HIRES CHIEF ENGINEER

Vancouver, British Columbia, June 21, 2018 – Quadron Cannatech Corporation (the “Company” or “Quadron”) – (CSE: QCC) is pleased to announce the appointment of Tamas Jozsa as Chief Engineer. Mr. Jozsa received a M.Sc. Degree in Mechanical Engineering from the Budapest University of Technology and Economics in 2001. He also possesses a Diploma in Motor Mechanics from Andras Fay Technical School.

Mr. Jozsa is an expert engineer with extensive experience in innovative design and developing effective processes based on quantitative, data-driven evidence. Mr. Jozsa specializes in creating and implementing process improvements from road map through to organization adoption and has an extensive list of project successes, and a background in leading international design teams.

In his most recent position as Director of Engineering at a major clean energy company, Mr. Jozsa established a new matrix organization structure and managed a Technical Division (7 teams) focused on restructuring and process optimization – resulting in saving $6.4 million over 3 years and reduced average engineering hours by more than 50%. He has also pioneered the development and launch of several new industrial natural gas products for developing markets.

“In addition to Mr. Jozsa’s proven engineering experience and success of team management, his ability to implement process improvements to save costs and optimize output will be instrumental in Quadron’s pursuit of designing and manufacturing new equipment and custom processing/formulation laboratory strategies for authorized cannabis industry participants,” states Rosy Mondin, CEO of Quadron.

About Quadron: Quadron, provides equipment, products and service solutions for the authorized cannabis industry by providing a full array of end-to-end extraction and processing solutions, including sales of end user delivery options (such as vapor pens) for medical and recreational consumers.
