Renforth is currently planning a return to the field this Fall on the wholly owned 260 km² Surimeau battery metals property, specifically the 5km long Victoria West target, with nickel, copper and zinc sulphides observed on surface and within initial drilling. Renforth intends to, upon receipt of required permits, strip an area of surface mineralization at Victoria West in order to get a better look at the mineralized system between and outside of two areas of existing outcrop. In addition to this Renforth intends to fly a detailed magnetic survey and produce a high-resolution photo-mosaic of Victoria West using drone mounted geophysical equipment. A drone survey is a low impact and cost-effective way to obtain very accurate information with a quick turnaround, this data would be used in the planning of Renforth's next drilling at Surimeau
