This Parbec drill program segment, anticipated to consist of ~1500 metres of drilling, follows drill campaigns in December 2017 and January 2018 by Renforth where a total of 2884 metres were drilled in 14 drill holes at Parbec, with each hole drilled intersecting gold outside of the March 2016 resource model, redefining and extending the mineralization at Parbec. The local availability of contractors and road access on the property allows Renforth to segment the planned drilling at Parbec into small programs, with stoppage time to allow for the receipt of assay results and incorporation of that data into the newly completed 3D deposit model, incorporating results obtained in the planning of the next program segment on an ongoing basis.

The 840 kms of a “High Resolution Quadri-Mag, VLF and AFMAG Heli Borne Survey” were completed the first week of March by Eagle Geophysics. The data obtained is currently being processed and interpreted. Eagle Geophysics has developed and modified geophysical equipment and software to provide the best resolution possible in several layers of information to help understand the structural fabric at surface and at depths of up to 1 km. One of the uses for this survey is in the Company’s ongoing structural interpretation of the relationship between the gold-bearing surface Discovery Veins and the Thompson-Cadillac

Mine Area Resource to the Cadillac Break and its' Deformation Zone, recently identified at New Alger.

SOQUEM recently completed an initial exploration program under their earn in requirement of a total of $1.3 million in project spending over 3 years to earn a 50% interest in the West Malartic property. At West Malartic, also tied on to the Canadian Malartic Mine, in this case south of the Cadillac Break, SOQUEM cut a total of 160 km of line, followed by surveying 140 km of ground IP. The data resultant from this survey, along with other property information available, is being incorporated into a comprehensive geo-referenced property dataset by SOQUEM.
