Trends and risks that may impact the Issuer (in no specific order):

Interest rate risk

The Issuer is exposed to interest rate risk to the extent that its cash balances bear variable rates of interest. The interest rate risks on cash and on the Issuer’s obligations are not considered significant.

Currency risk

The Issuer has foreign investments and is therefore subject to currency risk. Management believes these investment and transaction amounts are not significant and there are no material foreign currency commitments. The currency risk is therefore manageable and not significant. The Issuer does not currently use any derivative instruments to reduce its exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates.

Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk associated with the inability of a third party to fulfil its payment obligations. The Issuer is exposed to the risk that third parties that owe money or securities in connection with services provided, or for other purposes, will default on their underlying obligations.

Prior to accepting any service engagement or providing any loan, the Issuer assesses future recoverability by examining the entities' financial conditions, properties and assets, business development activities and management. The Issuer manages its exposure to credit risk by reviewing the outstanding balances on an ongoing basis, monitoring the amount attributable to each counterparty, and the length of time taken for amounts to be settled. Where necessary, management takes appropriate action to follow up on those balances considered overdue.

Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Issuer will have insufficient cash resources to meet its financial obligations as they become due. The Issuer's liquidity and operating results may be adversely affected if the Issuer does not have access to the capital markets, whether as a result of a downturn in general market conditions or related to matters specific to the Issuer, or if the value of the Issuer's investments decline, resulting in lower proceeds and/or losses on disposition. The Issuer generates cash flows primarily from the disposition of its investments and from its financing activities. The Issuer's investments focus on early-stage companies which can at times be relatively illiquid and if the Issuer decides to dispose of certain securities, it may not be able to do so at favorable prices at that time, or at all. However, the Issuer has sufficient marketable securities which are freely tradable and relatively liquid to fund its obligations as they become due under normal operating conditions such that, in the absence of overall market disruptions or exceptional circumstances, liquidity risk can be minimized.

Market risk

Market risk is the risk that the fair value of, or future cash flows from, the Issuer's financial instruments will significantly fluctuate due to changes in market prices. The value of the financial instruments can be affected by changes in interest rates, foreign exchange rates and equity and commodity prices. The Issuer is exposed to market risk in trading its investments and unfavourable market conditions could result in dispositions of investments at less than favourable prices. The Issuer's investments are primarily concentrated in early-stage companies, which results in exposure to higher volatility than broader market investments and indexes. The Issuer's investments are accounted for at fair value and are sensitive to changes in market bid prices, such that changes in market prices result in a proportionate change in the carrying value of the Issuer's investments.

Concentration risk

The Issuer is subject to concentration risk due to the nature of the Issuer's operations as an investment company and the number of investments held in the portfolio which consists primarily of early-stage companies and their related technologies. As a result, the investment portfolio is directly exposed to the risks associated with companies operating in this industry sector.
