The BCSC has named ImagineAR Inc. (Formerly Imagination Park Entertainment Inc.) as a respondent in a Notice of Hearing which was released on Tuesday, September 28th, 2021.

Summary:

The B.C. Securities Commission has begun administrative proceedings against investor relations company Stock Social Inc. and its principal, West Vancouver's Kyle Alexander Johnston, for multiple disclosure failures in its advertising. The BCSC claims that Stock Social posted favourable material on-line for several companies, but did not clearly state that the postings were disseminated on behalf of the companies. Mr. Johnston also arranged for several social media "influencers" to promote the stocks, the BCSC claims.

The allegations are contained in a brief notice of hearing that the BCSC released on Tuesday, Sept. 28. In addition to Mr. Johnston, the BCSC has named five public companies as respondents as well as representatives of those companies. The companies are Bearing Lithium Corp., Hello Pal International Inc., ImagineAR Inc. (Formerly Imagination Park Entertainment, Inc.), MGX Minerals Inc. and Phivida Holdings Inc.

The case centres around investor relations work that Stock Social did for the five companies between August, 2016, to March, 2018. It prepared advertising that went out through several websites, generally written in the style of a news article, the BCSC says. The material appeared on Stock Social's website and other sites affiliated with it, according to the hearing notice.

The problem, as set out by the BCSC, is that the material did not follow the rules for promotional publications. It did not "clearly and conspicuously" state that the companies themselves were behind the advertising. (Such disclosure is mandatory for stock market advertising in most jurisdictions.) Some of the advertising did contain disclaimers, but the print of those disclaimers was in a small font, the BCSC contends.

The BCSC also complains about social media posts that Stock Social issued about some of the companies. According to the hearing notice, it hired social media influencers (people with a large following on social media services such as Twitter who will promote a posting for a fee). Those influencers received instructions on what to post and when, the BCSC says. As with the other advertising, this material failed to properly disclose the fact that the ads were done at the request of the companies, the BCSC contends.

The BCSC has not yet set a hearing date. Also named in the hearing notice are five individuals who had roles with the various companies during the period at issue. They are: Jeremy Poirier, president of Bearing Lithium; Ryan Johnson, who was in charge of corporate communications at Hello Pal; Chad McMillan, was a consultant to ImagineAR (Formerly Imagination Park Entertainment, Inc.) ; Jared Lazerson, the president of MGX; and John-David Belfontaine, the president of Phivida.

On March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization declared the outbreak of the novel strain of coronavirus ("COVID-19") a pandemic, which has resulted in governments worldwide enacting emergency measures to combat the spread of the virus.

These measures, which include the implementation of travel bans, self-imposed quarantine periods and social distancing, have caused material disruption to businesses globally resulting in an economic slowdown.

Global equity markets have experienced significant volatility and weakness. Governments and central banks have reacted with significant monetary and fiscal interventions designed to stabilize economic conditions. The duration and impact of the COVID-19 outbreak is unknown at this time, as is the efficacy of the government and central bank interventions.

It is not possible to reliably estimate the length and severity of these developments and the impact on the financial results and condition of the Company in future periods as well as the Company's ability to find new business opportunities, raise capital or restructure the Company's finances
