On November 1, 2021, the Issuer announced that its highly anticipated standalone hyper-immersive Virtual Reality (VR) attraction UNCONTAINED has moved out of Beta development and into production. The UNCONTAINED standalone attraction will be powered by the Isser's proprietary Operating System, Uncontained/OS. Uncontained/OS is the key software component in bridging physical real world location-based social entertainment with Metaverse virtual world experiences.

Uncontained/OS brings the issuer's proprietary technology stack, which it has developed over the past 4-years, under one platform which connects the UNCONTAINED virtual experiences to the physical hyper-immersive effects which include control of both broad and fine scope haptics, atmospheric, aroma, climate effects, as well as interactive control inputs, headphone-free spatial audio, 5G interconnectivity and more. Uncontained/OS will be the platform enabling anyone to build Physical Metaverse experiences, providing impactful and realistic experiences not possible in a home environment. UNCONTAINED is the world's first physical portal to the Metaverse. Powered by its proprietary Operating System, Uncontained/OS, the combined solution is an industry first in bridging physical real world location-based social entertainment with Metaverse virtual world experiences.

The Issuer will reveal its first game, titled Deep Signal, which takes advantage of advanced hyper-immersive physical effects to immerse players in a sci-fi fantasy world and race against time to unravel the mysteries of an alien race and a mysterious new power source that enables humans to travel further than ever imagined before.
