17. Discuss any trends which are likely to impact the Issuer including trends in the Issuer's market(s) or political/regulatory trends.

The Issuer has no history of operations. Even if the medical marihuana licenses are issued to the Issuer by Health Canada and/or state regulatory agencies in the United States, there is no guarantee that the production facility will be constructed nor is there any guarantee that the business model of producing and selling marihuana will be a viable business. Significant funds are required to construct the facility, to obtain the license, and to market and sell medical marihuana to the public. Other companies are already either licensed to produce medical marihuana or are in a more advanced state in achieving their license.

The market for medical marihuana in Canada is tightly controlled. The Issuer's ability to grow, store and sell medical marijuana in Canada is dependent on the Issuer obtaining "licensed producer" status from Health Canada and the financial condition of the Issuer. There is potential that the Issuer will face intense competition from other companies, some of which can be expected to have longer operating histories and greater financial resources and manufacturing and marketing experience than the Issuer. Because of the early stage of the industry in which the Issuer intends to operate, the Issuer expects to face additional competition from new entrants.
