QSolar Adds a Second Production Line in its New Manufacturing Facility in Shanghai, China

Calgary, AB, Canada, July 22, 2011 - QSolar Limited ("QSolar" or the "Company", CNSX: QSL) is pleased to announce that it has added a second production line in its manufacturing facility in Shanghai, China. The addition of the second line doubles the production capacity from the 20MW/year (approx. $30M/year) to 40MW/year (about $60M/year).

Andreas Tapakoudes, President & CEO, commented: “We are very excited with these developments and the speed at which our facilities continue to expand in preparation for the execution of the large LOIs, which may result in purchase orders at the end of 2011. This increased capacity from the Company’s own manufacturing facility will lead to increased profit margins and we are anticipating further margin increases when the commercial production of the Kruciwatt cells begins.”

QSolar Profile

QSolar manufactures solar photovoltaic (PV) panels in its new manufacturing facilities in Shanghai China, as well as the contracted manufacturer in Shenzhen using its proprietary patent pending Spraytek process and its own designs. QSolar products were introduced in July 2010 and have attracted significant interest, orders and letters of intent from European and U.S. markets. QSolar Spraytek panels offer several advantages over competing products as they have significantly lower losses in hot climates due to their design, offer superior solar cell encapsulation for better protection and longer life and cost less than equivalent products. In addition, QSolar offers solar panels with positive tolerance which means that the customer will get a guaranteed output which can be up to 5% more than the actual specifications.

QSolar commenced trading on the Canadian National Stock Exchange (CNSX) under the symbol QSL on March 25, 2011 through a reverse take-over of Bricol Capital Corporation. For more information on QSolar please view the Listing Statement on the CNSX website, www.cnsx.ca.
