VANCOUVER, BC. (August 7, 2013) - RESAAS Services Inc. (CNSX: RSS), a social network for real estate professionals, has been selected by the Midwest Tech Fair and the Cincinnati Area Board of REALTORS® to power their upcoming event to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio this August.

“We’re looking forward to having RESAAS power our upcoming Midwest Tech Fair,” said Kevin Kelly, President of the Cincinnati Area Board of REALTORS®. “Not only will this be a great addition to our event, but RESAAS will also help to educate our REALTORS® on a forward-thinking social platform that has been created specifically for the real estate industry itself.”

Speakers, sponsors, attendees and affiliates of the Midwest Tech Fair 2013 will be provided profile pages on RESAAS, and will be networked together into a private group to communicate and share information in advance of, during, and after the live event. Not only will RESAAS socially power this event, but the company will also host breakout sessions to educate event attendees.

“The Midwest Tech Fair at its core is about how technology can empower the real estate professional, making it a perfect fit for RESAAS,” said Michael St. Hilaire, CMO of RESAAS. “It is also key for us to continue building on the momentum we established in the Midwest at the MREDpalooza show.”

The event has attracted several distinguished speakers, including Travis Robertson (President of R2 Coaching and Training), Jeff Lobb (VP Technology & Innovation at Exit Realty Corp.), and Nicole Nicolay (Chief Creative Officer at Agent Evolution).
