

Alternate Health's CanaCard Controlled-substance Management System to launch in all of National Access Cannabis' clinics across Canada

TORONTO, June 14, 2017 /CNW/ - Alternate Health Corp (CSE:AHG) (OTC:AHGIF), an international medical cannabis company, announced today that the company has reached an agreement to launch its CanaCard Patient Management System in all of National Access Cannabis (NAC) clinics across Canada. Alternate Health uses best-in-class technology, research, education, production and laboratories to increase the awareness, regulatory compliance, and appropriate usage of cannabinoids in modern medical practices.

National Access Cannabis operates ten clinics across Canada, with a specific focus on connecting patients with clear information on the legal treatment options available. In recognition of NAC's leadership in Canadian medical cannabis, Alternate Health has made investments of close to $1,000,000 in the company. Alternate Health believes that this agreement creates a base for further expansion in the Canadian market, including the company's cannabinoid research and delivery systems.

"Alternate Health is taking a step forward in consolidating our leadership position in medical cannabis technology," says Dr. Jamison Feramisco, CEO of Alternate Health. "National Access Cannabis is a Canadian pioneer in medical marijuana and we are excited to see our technology help NAC benefit patients and generate revenue in a key area of both our businesses."

The CanaCard Patient Management System is a cloud-based platform that manages the end-to-end transactions involved with providing safe access to medical cannabis for patients across Canada. The database connects patients, certified doctors and licensed producers with a complete set of patient management tools. We ensure the secure storage of personal data, account balances, transactional volume and research data.

Alternate Health will install the system in each of National Access Cannabis' ten clinics across Canada and any new NAC clinics will operate with CanaCard in the future. Revenues will be generated for both NAC and Alternate Health from transaction fees charged on sales between patients and licensed producers of medical marijuana, compliant with Health Canada's rules and guidelines for medical cannabis in Canada.

"This agreement with National Access Cannabis instantly positions Alternate Health as a major player in the medical cannabis industry, from coast to coast," says Dr. Feramisco. "With CanaCard's innovative technology, access to medical marijuana in Canada will be safer, more transparent and more effective for those patients who need it most."

About National Access Cannabis
