LEADING CANNABIS REGULATORY EXPERT TO JOIN GLOBAL CANNABIS ADVISORY BOARD

Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, September 19, 2017 – Global Cannabis Applications Corp. (“GCAC” or the “Company”) (CSE:APP, FSE:2FA, OTCQB:FUAPF), a leading developer of innovative data technologies for the cannabis industry, is pleased to announce that Blaise Bratter has joined its Advisory Board effective immediately.

Mr. Bratter will provide guidance and forethought on government regulatory requirements in Australia and other emerging medical cannabis markets. Currently he serves as Chief Development Officer of BuddingTech, a medical cannabis accelerator that also fosters collaboration and international integration in the Australian industry. Mr. Bratter started his career as an environmental consultant, but in more recent years has worked in legislation and policy development for the Australian government. In his current role managing relationships with various stakeholders, and overseeing business and strategy development, he has developed a sound understanding of the complex Australian medical cannabis legislative framework. He is also the General Manager of the Medical Cannabis Council of Australia, the chief industry peak body.

“I am happy to join the GCAC team as a member of their Advisory Board,” states Mr. Bratter. “GCAC’s focus on creating a world class cannabis data set from its Citizen Green apps for medicinal use within a legal framework is very exciting.”

GCAC CEO, Brad Moore, commented, “GCAC’s ability to attract such a high level of quality person such as Mr. Bratter to its Advisory Board is a true testament to the direction and opportunity for the Company.”
