

CSE Says Quadron CEO Will Help Shape Future of Canadian Cannabis

Vancouver, British Columbia, June 8, 2018 – Rosy Mondin, CEO of Quadron Cannatech Corporation (the “Company” or “Quadron”) – (CSE: QCC), was interviewed in a feature story from the Canadian Securities Exchange (“CSE”) this week. Ms. Mondin and three other women were noted for their powerful influence on the future of the Canadian cannabis industry.

Ms. Mondin outlined her strategic vision for the market and how she works on multiple levels to remain fully engaged in the cannabis sector. Her focus is on running the Quadron family of companies, but she continues her tireless advocacy work at the federal level, helping to shape the future of cannabis across the nation through the Cannabis Trade Alliance of Canada (“CTAC”) and Canadian Association of Medical Cannabis Dispensaries (“CAMCD”).

Quotes from the article:

On Quadron:

“Quadron Cannatech (QCC) is a market and technology leader in end-to-end automated processing and extraction laboratory solutions for the international cannabis industry. QCC also provides a range of innovative, value-added services including custom ancillary products and cannabis accessories.”

On the future of cannabis consumption:

“I think the biggest shift will be the consumption of cannabis moving away from smoking traditional flower to products that are extract-based. Extracts form the basis of the majority of cannabis products outside of smoking: vapor-oils, capsules, tinctures, sublinguals, transdermal patches, edibles, topicals, suppositories, and infused beverages. I have no doubt that we’ll see different consumption methods and further product innovation. I think the sky’s the limit.”

On advocacy:

“This is a 21st-century industry and women can play a leadership role from day one. For example, as a business leader in a new industry, I don’t think sitting back and just accepting the regulations the government tables is acceptable. We’re getting out there and helping define the rules as the country moves forward.”

The Company would like to congratulate Ms. Mondin on the CSE’s recognition of the unique skills and experience in the Canadian cannabis industry she brings to our leadership team.

About Quadron: Quadron, provides equipment, products and service solutions for the authorized cannabis industry by providing a full array of end-to-end extraction and processing solutions, including sales of end user delivery options (such as vapor pens) for medical and recreational consumers.
